Dear Lara,

Thank you for helping out with the San Antonio event on June 24. My family and I have been touched by the outpouring of support we have received throughout my campaign for President.

Your flexibility, enthusiasm and good nature was important in making my visit a success, and I appreciate it. As I traveled the country last year campaigning for Senate and House candidates, I spoke to people of diverse backgrounds from Rhode Island to Missouri to Washington State. I heard the same message in Omaha, Nebraska, that I heard in Orlando, Florida.

The American people want a new kind of politics that replaces partisan pettiness with honest conversation in pursuit of constructive change. Your interest in helping the campaign reaffirms my belief that 2008 can be a watershed election for a new politics of principled, passionate, and civil debate about the future of our country.

I hope you will bookmark www.BarackObama.com and visit often. The campaign website has a lot of information in case you have more questions about my background, positions, or upcoming events. It also has a set of tools called my.BarackObama.com that empower you to get involved by networking with friends, neighbors, and supporters around the country.

Lara, thank you again for all of your time and energy.

Sincerely,

Barack Obama
